

03

FarmLink Research Report 2018

Maintaining Profitable Farming Systems with Retained Stubble

Trial Site Location FarmLink region

Report Authors Kylie Dunstan, FarmLink

Introduction

FarmLink wrapped up its long term Stubble Project which was conducted as a part of the GRDC National Stubble Initiative.

As a result of extensive research conducted throughout the five years of the project, a number of publications were produced, ranging from guidelines and case studies to technical papers. These have now been compiled and published in a final documents titled 'Seasons in Stubble', and as the name suggests, follows the four seasons - Harvest, Fallow, Sowing and Growth - of a typical cropping enterprise.

Project Partners

Funding Partners

Project code – CSP:00174

FarmLink's Seasons in Stubble publication can be accessed via our past projects section on our website at <http://www.farmlink.com.au/past-projects>

Seasons in Stubble has been produced as a digital publication, but if you prefer a printed copy simply email farmlink@farmlink.com.au or call the office on (02) 6980 1333 to request one. ■

